The last two years Abhyudaya's voluntary work has risen amazingly. What started off as an initiative to provide better education to the underprivileged, the activities have now expanded into other humanitarian work too. During the lock down period they mobilised resources and took care of the basic needs of hundreds of stranded migrant workers. The volunteers stand work for the well being of the society as a whole is very impressive.
As a person who has seen the spirit and selfless work of Abhyudaya, I would urge all those who would like to support a genuine organisation to bring positive changes in society through donations to support Abhyudaya.
Of course one can't both be a donor and a volunteer.
One can choose to contribute whichever way her she wants and find more purpose and fulfillment in life.
Let us all contribute in our own humble way to spread happiness and cheer in our society.
